Receiving this award to me means the chance to pursue my dream of becoming a mechanical engineer and possibly get a master's degree in something that will help me go on to work in the renewable energy sector to try and solve the ever-growing problem that is climate change. I hope that one day, discussions of global warming and climate change are a thing of the past due to modern advancements made by humanity, some of which I hope to create. I would like to thank the Maritime Patrol Association for investing in my future and letting me know that I have this kind of support. It will help me overcome challenges that I will face in life to get done the work that needs to be done.
