Receiving an award for my academics and community involvement has truly been a blessing. I am incredibly grateful for all Navy sailors and their families who serve this country and create wonderful organizations such as Wings Over America to help fellow members of our community. Growing up in a naval family has had its challenges, but with exceptional generosity the naval community has created a system of support that continues to hold the family dynamic together. With this grant, I can breathe much easier knowing that the stressful expenses of college won't be placed entirely upon me. Thank you so much Wings Over America for your continual generosity and support of the families of the Naval Aviation Community!
