Receiving a scholarship award from the Wings Over America Scholarship Foundation is a testament to the strength and generosity of the Naval aviation community. I feel extremely blessed to know that my future is supported by a community that has already given so much to my family and me. Through this scholarship, I will be able to further pursue my passion of computer science through the lens of engineering at North Carolina State University. There are so many technological capabilities that the world has yet to truly tap into, whether it be the powers of big data or crisis management through machine learning. Earning a degree in this field will allow me to explore these new technologies and use them to better society one step at a time. I am excited that my vision is one that is supported by the Wings Over America Foundation, and that I can pursue this education with less hesitation due to this scholarship.
