Receiving a scholarship from Wings Over America and the Maritime Patrol Association brings me both excitement and immense honor. I am privileged to have received both scholarships, especially since I am the third and final child in my family who will be attending college. Knowing that higher education costs so much in this country can be very discouraging and frustrating during the application process. However, selfless organizations like Wings Over America and the Maritime Patrol Association have made it so that I, and many other Navy dependents, are able to have an equal opportunity at pursuing a post-high school education. This scholarship is doing much more than helping me pay for part of my education- it is allowing me to continue my passion for filmmaking and social justice, and to develop my skills and mind to better our country and world.
