

Navy Federal Credit Union Scholar

Emma Marsh

Millersville, MD

Sponsor: CAPT Raymond Marsh III

College: Washington & Lee University

2022-2023: Freshman

Major: History & Business

Academic & Extracurricular Highlights:

- Varsity Lacrosse: 12th Grade Captain
- National Honor Society: Membership Chair
- French Honor Society/Club: 12th Grade Pres.
- Severna Park Leadership Institute
- Savvy Consignment: Sales Representative
- Maryland United Club Lacrosse Tryouts: Referee/Run Drills

The Navy is such a defining part of my life and who I am. It is truly an honor to be recognized by the Wings Over America Scholarship Foundation which is so supportive of Naval aviation families. I am profoundly thankful to the scholarship committee and all the generous donors that have made the opportunity of a great education a reality. I am humbled to be in the great company of the other recipients. Being awarded this scholarship has reduced the financial burden on my family while I am attending Washington & Lee University. There are no athletic scholarships available to Division III student-athletes so it is only through merit and scholarships that I can help my parents pay for my dreams of playing lacrosse at such an academically prestigious university. I wanted to balance top-notch academics with a lacrosse program that had a proven winning legacy and valued teamwork and character. It was important to attend a school that not only valued me but my military roots. Washington & Lee values many of the military principles that I grew up with – honesty, integrity, honor, and commitment. I look forward to studying History and Business/ Entrepreneurship and having the opportunity to study a semester abroad. This scholarship has given me confidence knowing that I have the support of the Naval aviation community behind me as I strike out to find my calling in life. It inspires me to remain committed to serving others.