Receiving this scholarship means a step in the direction of independence and the next step in life. Being in a season of living apart in expensive locations with active kids, extras are at a premium and they add up fast. I am now in a position to be able to focus on school and not have to work additional hours to pay tuition and the required childcare associated. It may have been a desire, but not necessarily a reality. I am excited to be able to start thinking about what the future looks like and have myself be more central than I have previously been. This is a chance to continue exploring what comes next and being able to finish something that I started. It is also a chance to continue to expand my support of my family financially by learning new skills that will contribute and build my resume for future duty stations.
