Receiving this scholarship allows me to continue pursuing my interests by studying human behavior and the brain through the neuroscience major at Swarthmore. I am currently passionate about conducting scientific research and see myself asking questions about the brain and running a laboratory one day. The support of scholarships like WOA will help me get there. In the meantime, my other passions include playing lacrosse for Swarthmore's DIII team, writing and editing for the school's science journal, and being a part of the school's Title IX Advisory Board.
