

Michael D Malone

Michael D. Malone has been President of Skarven Enterprises since November 2004. Skarven Enterprises designs and develops analytic approaches and technology applications specializing in real time/streaming data fusion and analysis for a variety of applications in government, financial services, auditing, and industry competitive intelligence. He directs all company operations including P&L responsibility, strategic planning, budget development and personnel oversight. In December 2008, Skarven was acquired by The Boeing Company. Admiral Malone remains with Skarven as part of the transition management team.

Prior to joining Skarven, Admiral Malone served thirty-four years in the United States Navy. As a Naval Aviator, he commanded a Strike Fighter Squadron, a Navy replenishment ship, a nuclear powered aircraft carrier (USS Enterprise) and an Aircraft Carrier Strike Group.

His final two assignments were in the leadership of Naval Aviation, including two years as Commander, Naval Air Forces (CEO for Naval Aviation). During these assignments, he focused on combat force preparations, budget and operational efficiencies, executive development, and safety of operations. He introduced best business practices throughout the Naval Aviation Enterprise. Lean manufacturing, Six Sigma and the Theory of Constraints led to significant efficiencies in budget execution and resulted in a $267 million dollar savings from a $2.5 billion dollar operating budget.

He is a 1970 graduate of the United States Naval Academy. His graduate education includes the Navy Nuclear Propulsion Program, and studies at the National Defense University, Harvard University, and The George Washington University.
